Dale goes old school in Idol bid

A TEENAGER could win a record deal after getting through to the regional finals of a national talent contest.

Dale Bennett, 16, of Calford Drive, Haverhill, is hoping to win Idol 2008 after his rendition of Mac The Knife got him through the first round at Bedford Corn Exchange.

Dale, who is studying music performance at West Suffolk College, could win up to £25,000 in prizes, including the chance to record an album if he impresses national judges including Bucks Fizz star Cheryl Baker and Atomic Kitten's Liz McAlarnon. The regional final is on October 23.

Dale said: "It was quite nerve-racking. There were five judges and we went in five at a time, I was in a group of boys and went first. I did Mac The Knife and then had to wait outside to find out whether we'd got through and I was the only one out of the five who went in."

"I do lots of different singing. My auntie has been getting me gigs doing lots of old songs so I do R&B and oldie stuff. My dad got me into it as well, he used to be in a band so he always helped me and I've had a lot of support from my family."

A CLINIC promising "outstanding" improvements to healthcare in Haverhill will be housed in portable buildings in a council car park.

NHS Suffolk's GP-led health centre is set to be based in a car park to the rear of the Rose and Crown Hotel on Withersfield Road.

The centre will remain on the site for two to three years after its scheduled opening on April 1, 2009, while work on a permanent site proceeds. Cabinet members of St Edmundsbury Borough Council, which owns the car park, approved the plans for "portable buildings" on Wednesday.

The centre will offer planned and unplanned GP appointments, minor injury services and blood testing, as well as walk-in clinics for those wanting to quit smoking, childhood obesity, sexual health and alcohol misuse. It will open from 8am to 8pm, seven days a week.

Martin Royal, director of business development and external relations at NHS Suffolk, the county's primary care trust, said no existing building was available to house the health centre and that the "temporary clinical pods" will be effective.

He said: "When you look at what they provide, you wouldn't be able to tell the difference between that and a permanent building."

"It conjures up the view of a Portakabin, but actually the buildings will be carpeted and air-conditioned. They meet current clinical standards for modern health centres."

Lord Darzi, the Government health minister, has told each primary care trust in England to provide one of the health centres to improve patient access to GPs and other services.

Double cash delight in memory of Mike

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A DYING man's request that funds be donated in his memory to the Weekly News St Nicholas Hospice at Home Appeal received a welcome boost after a close friend doubled the amount raised.

Mike Thomas was 70 when he died of lung cancer in May, only weeks after being diagnosed with the disease. He and wife Margaret had moved to Lavender Field, Haverhill, when they retired in 2002 to be near their daughter in Steeple Bumpstead and close to Stansted airport, so they could visit their apartment in Gozo, Malta.

Mr Thomas received such wonderful care during his final weeks from Macmillan nurse Trevor Farrington – who was recently appointed to head up the new Hospice at Home service – that he requested that any donations made in his memory after his death should go to our appeal.

The appeal for £40,000 will pay for hospice services at home for people in and around Haverhill, removing the need to travel to the hospice in Bury St Edmunds.

Mr Thomas's story was featured in the Weekly News last month, and when Mrs Thomas's brother David Russell, who lives in Southampton, saw it he decided to match the amount already given. Donations of £400 had been made, so the total raised now in Mr Thomas's memory is £800.

■ TWICE THE SURPRISE . . . Margaret Thomas hands over the cheque to hospice fundraiser, Ian Norris. Picture: Louise Cohen 510250.

Mrs Thomas said: "I could not believe it when he told me, I was in tears. He knew Mike before I did and they were good friends for 47 years.

"I am so pleased, it is what Mike would have wanted – £800 is a substantial amount of money and can do a lot of good."

Our appeal, launched in February, has already passed the halfway mark, with offers of help continuing to arrive all the time.

Ian Norris, fundraiser for the hospice, said: "This is wonderful.

"We were very grateful for the original donations in memory of Mr Thomas and to have the same amount again is the icing on the cake."

■ St Nicholas Hospice Care is hosting an all swinging, all dancing, thigh-slapping barn dance fundraising evening on Saturday, October 11, at the beautiful West Wing, Ickworth House.

Swing your partner by the hand and join the hoe down with live music from the nationally-renowned barn dance band, Stowfolk from 7.30pm.

Jenny Baskett, St Nicholas Hospice Care challenge and events fundraiser, said: "This is a full night's worth of fun and authentic country music. The ticket price of £25 includes a delicious ploughman's supper and a guaranteed great time. You don't have to have had any experience of barn dancing before, just grab a partner and bring a big smile and you'll have a ball."

Proceeds from the night will go towards supporting St Nicholas Hospice Care. For more information call the ticket hotline on (01284) 747614 or email jennybaskett@stnh.org.uk

How can you help?

WE CANNOT reach our target without your help – so the Weekly News wants to hear from anyone who is organising fundraising discos, barbecues, dances or other events to boost the hospice appeal. Tell us what you are planning and we will help publicise your event to make sure it is a success and raises as much money as possible. If you already have an event organised, why not pledge all or part of the proceeds to the appeal and benefit from the extra publicity to help a really good cause.

A special bank account has been set up at Barclay's Bank. Cash or cheques can be paid in directly to the St Nicholas Hospice at Home Appeal, sort code 201612, account number 80981842.

An on-line donations page has also been created at www.justgiving.com/haverhillweeklynews, which also gives details of how to donate by text, and you can donate by phone on (01284) 715582, at the hospice shop in High Street, Haverhill, or the Weekly News office in Queen Street, Haverhill.

Date for volunteers

VOLUNTARY groups will host a conference for the charity and voluntary sector. Haverhill Association of Voluntary Organisations will hold the conference immediately before its annual general meeting on Friday, October 31. The day starts at 10am at the Haverhill Arts Centre. The meeting is expected to finish at around 3.30pm. The conference is open to all, but the annual meeting is only for member organisations.

Thieves' shed raid

BURGLARS smashed their way into a shed to steal a generator. They struck in Little Wratting between 9am last Friday and 7.40am on Monday. Anyone with information should call Pc Nathan Hails at Bury St Edmunds police on (01284) 774100.

Sat nav stolen

THIEVES stole a sat nav after breaking into a car. The theft happened in Shaftesbury Court, Haverhill, between 4pm and 4.30pm last Friday. The thieves broke into a blue Renault Megane. Anyone with information should contact Sgt Darren Lamboll on (01284) 774100.

Sale for playgroup

JUMBLE sale enthusiasts could help raise money for a pre-school playgroup. The Steeple Bumpstead playgroup is organising the sale, which will be held on Saturday between 2pm and 4pm at the village hall. There will also be a tea and cake stall.

Take the plunge with free swimming

PEOPLE aged over 60 will be able to make a splash with free swimming.

Haverhill's pool will benefit from a £33,364 grant to bring in the scheme from April next year.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council was given the grant following a Government announcement in June that £140million was being made available nationally to promote fitness and health among older people.

The grant will be forwarded to Abbeycroft Leisure, which runs the Haverhill pool.

Cllr Lynsey Alexander, portfolio holder for culture and sport, said: "Swimming is one of the most popular ways people over 60 like to keep fit and we hope this extra money will be an added incentive for others to take the plunge.

"We want to encourage more people to take part in sport as a way of staying healthy for longer, which is why we have acted quickly to win this extra money.

"Along with other councils in Suffolk, we are committed to promoting activities like swimming and I am sure this news will result in real benefits for people looking for a fun way to stay active."

Warren Smyth, chief executive of Abbeycroft, said "One of the appeals of swimming is that it is sociable.

"People of greatly varying ability can enjoy using the pool at the same time."

'Good times on the way'

HAVERHILL is set to see "huge benefits" from developments such as the new cinema, Tesco superstore and revamp of Queen Street, councillors say.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council will hear updates on major Haverhill projects at a full council meeting on September 23.

Councillor John Griffiths, leader of the council, will say: "A range of projects have recently been completed, are under way or are about to reach fruition including: the opening of the new environmentally sustainable council depot, Haverhill's cinema and restaurants, which are due to open shortly, the Haverhill Leisure Centre refurbishment is making good progress and consultation is about to commence on plans for the enhancement of Queen Street."

"In addition, demolition work on the former Station Yard site has started to make way for the new Tesco superstore."

Cllr Nigel Aitkens, cabinet member with responsibility for Haverhill, will give a more detailed update at the meeting.

He says in his report: "The new multiplex cinema is looking very impressive now and is due to open on October 9. The scheme will bring a tremendous boost through increased footfall to this part of the town."

"The leisure centre closed in June and work on the £5 million improvement and modernisation project has started."

On the A1307, Cllr Aitkens notes that Cambridgeshire County Council is planning "new signs, a road safety campaign, a speed limit review, physical works and installing a speed camera".

Young stars get new cinema preview

YOUNGSTERS at a Haverhill stage school dream of seeing their names up in lights – but first they'll see the lights go down for the first time at their town's new cinema complex.

Pupils from the Haverhill School of Speech and Drama visited the Ehringshausen Way complex where the cinema will open with a gala VIP night on Thursday, October 9.

The school is based at Haverhill Arts Centre, catering for youngsters aged from five to 15 years, and has been operating for almost seven years. Principal Samantha Tucker tries to keep her pupils grounded, rather than becoming too star struck, but says they are all very excited about the long-awaited opening.

She says the recent success of musical films such as High School Musical, Hairspray and Mamma Mia has inspired youngsters to believe they too could achieve that kind of success.

She said: "Musicals have always made great films, going right back to West Side Story in the 50s, then Godspell and Grease, then there was a bit of a lull, then the recent upsurge. "I think a lot of the success is down to very good marketing, a universal appeal to several generations and the feel good factor and people come out singing the songs having escaped from reality for a couple of hours."

"For my pupils it has really sparked their imaginations, I had a couple of six-year-olds who wanted to perform a routine from High School Musical in front of the whole school. I was absolutely staggered, but they were really good and it was wonderful that they had the confidence to do that. "I don't think the majority of my pupils are starry eyed, I like to keep them grounded and let them know they have to work really hard and they may not succeed as a professional. They already can perform with [theatre group] Centre Stage and we already have films at the arts centre, so the arrival of the cinema will give them even more choice and variety just down the road without having to go to Cambridge or Bury."

During their visit, the youngsters were also given a questionnaire asking them about their favourite films. Their most popular film of the year so far is WALL-E, while the film they are most looking forward to seeing next year is Harry Potter and the Half Blood Prince.

In the nearer future, the children said they were excited about High School Musical 3 and the sing-along version of Mamma Mia.

Car park site for GP clinic

Mr Royal said NHS Suffolk chose Haverhill because the town "has areas of deprivation and health need which we felt would benefit from this new facility".

He added: "It will be outstanding for Haverhill. What we will get is a real opportunity to have health facilities which are within footfall of the town centre."

"The long-term plan is that we would want to put a permanent facility into the centre of Haverhill. We are having discussions with St Edmundsbury Borough Council to identify a site as we speak."

Councillor Nigel Aitkens, borough council cabinet member with responsibility for Haverhill, believes the car park option is the best one available.

He said: "It is reasonably close to the town centre, there are car parks close by and there is a residential area close by. If it was on an estate outside the town, people from the other side of town would have big distances to travel."

The council will review the possibility of providing all-day parking for the centre in the Lower Downs Slade car park.

Dr Mary Selby, speaking on behalf of the Christmas Maltings Surgery, said: "We had hoped the PCT would have listened to local people, who are very happy with the three GP surgeries in the town – all of whom have room for more patients – and who hoped the new clinic would bring in extra services rather than duplicating what already exists in a costly new building, but we're still extremely keen to work with the project to try and get the best for the town."

Man in court over child sex attacks

A HAVERHILL man accused of two sexual offences against young girls has appeared in court.

Michael Collyer, 36, spoke only to confirm his name during a brief preliminary hearing at Ipswich Crown Court.

He is alleged to have attacked two 12-year-olds as they walked along a footpath on the disused railway line near Water's Edge, Haverhill, on July 24. Neither girl can be identified for legal reasons.

Collyer, of Hundon Place, Haverhill, faces one charge of sexual assault and one of attempted sexual assault.

His barrister, Matthew McNiff, said no indication of Collyer's plea to either charge was being given at this stage.

Judge Neil McKitterick gave the prosecution and defence six weeks in which to produce the necessary documents for the case to progress further and told Collyer he would have to return to court to plead to the offences on November 14.

Collyer was remanded in custody until November. No application was made for bail.

Queen Street revamp needs 'realistic' art

ARTWORK costing £20,000 will feature in a refurbishment of Haverhill's Queen Street – and there are calls for it to be a "realistic" work that fits with the town.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council has set up a public art working group to commission the artwork as part of the Queen Street Enhancement Scheme.

The council has also given a £25,000 grant for improvement of shop fronts and signage on Queen Street. It will ask Suffolk County

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Council to match this with another £25,000.

The council's cabinet approved the plans on Wednesday. A public consultation will help decide the exact nature of the artwork.

Councillor Maureen Byrne, leader of the Labour group on Haverhill Town Council, believes something commemorating the town's history would be fitting.

She said: "I think it should be something in relation to the history of Haverhill. But I think it has got to be something people can relate to. I love the piece of art on the A1307 roundabout, but I think I am one of the few. Modern art is a taste. I would like to see something more realistic."

The borough council will hope the artwork goes down better than the last piece of public art to be introduced to Haverhill.

Some residents got their claws out for the sculpture of Owen the Cat, which was unveiled in September last year as part of the borough council's facelift for Jubilee Walk. One local described it as a "bit of bent tin".

The approved recommendation stated that the "budget for public art in Queen Street be established at a maximum of £20,000".

Cllr Marion Rushbrook, who represents Kedington, will be chairman of the working group.

Cllr Byrne urged that the public should be heavily involved. She said: "Something like this would be a fantastic project for the senior schools. If we could get young people involved, it would be a great opportunity for them to come up with a piece of art and get them involved in community issues."

■ APPRECIATED... Kath Winchester, centre, is surrounded by her colleagues at a party to mark her 40th year at Place Court.

Thanks go to Kath for 40 years in care home kitchen

A KITCHEN assistant who has spent four decades helping to feed residents at a care home for the elderly has received a special presentation to mark her achievements.

Kath Winchester started work at the Place Court home in Camps Road, Haverhill, when she was just 17 and has never looked back. Her father John Mynott, who was a chef there for 10 years, got Mrs Winchester an interview for the job and her mother Gurtrude was also a house keeper at the home for 15 years. She also met her husband John at Place Court, as he also worked there as a chef.

On Tuesday, September 9,

Cllr Graham Newman, Suffolk County Council's Portfolio Holder for Adult and Community Services, visited Place Court to present flowers to Mrs Winchester and she also received gifts from fellow staff members and residents.

Even after 40 years, Mrs Winchester who is now 57, has no plans to give up her job, although she may reduce her full-time hours in future so that she can spend more time with her husband who is retired. Mrs Winchester, of Kestrel Road, Haverhill, said: "It does not really seem like that long because time goes so quickly and you don't realise. I have just finished my NVQ 2 in cooking so I do a bit of cooking as well now. It can be really rewarding at certain times, when you do things for the residents they are very appreciative. Now that my husband is retired he always has a meal ready for me when I get home. "Sue, who I work with in the kitchen has been here for 20 years and someone else for 21, it is a nice place to work. Things have changed quite a lot since we were refurbished, they put in the rehab unit with a kitchen so that people can do more cooking for themselves. I have had loads of presents given to me and the councillor who brought me flowers was very appreciative of what I had done."

NHS 'wasted' £6K on name

HEALTH bosses spent £6,000 on consultants to change the name of Suffolk Primary Care Trust to NHS Suffolk.

Figures obtained under the Freedom of Information Act showed a consultancy firm was paid £6,000 for carrying out a "trust identity study".

David Ruffley, MP for Bury St Edmunds called the exercise a "hideous waste of precious NHS money".

A spokesman for NHS Suffolk defended the name change as a move towards explaining more fully the trust's role as leader of the NHS locally.

Councillors reject bid to split county in two

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HAVERHILL councillors have voted to reject plans to split Suffolk between two councils.

Haverhill Town Council agreed on Tuesday to oppose plans from the Boundary Committee for England (BCE) for two unitary authorities – one based on Ipswich-Felixstowe and another for rural Suffolk.

Councillors decided the plan failed on three of the BCE's criteria for judging it. They said it had little in the way of public support, would not offer greater strategic leadership for Suffolk and would not deliver "empowerment to citizens and communities".

The council will send a letter to the BCE outlining its reasons for rejecting the plan.

Gordon Mussett, council clerk, said: "We are struggling to find anyone who feels enthusiastic and wants to support a rural Suffolk option. We felt unsure how splitting Suffolk into two provided stronger strategic leadership than if it remained as one county."

Some have suggested that the sweeping rural Suffolk council could reach out through community boards.

Mr Mussett said: "We felt that in parts of rural Suffolk, there is no obvious grouping of communities to enable you to achieve that, particularly in rural areas of mid-Suffolk."

But the council believes the shake-up will deliver on the other two criteria – delivering value for money and repaying the cost of the revamp within five years.

The council's vote came as a report from Suffolk County Council said one giant unitary authority would save residents £85 million over the next five years and cut Council Tax bills.

In the saddle for churches

CYCLISTS and walkers spent an energetic Saturday visiting as many churches as they could throughout Suffolk – including Haverhill.

The 27th annual Suffolk Historic Churches Trust bicycle ride saw participants raising sponsorship for each place of worship they visited between 10am to 6pm on the day.

The money was shared equally by the trust and the church named by the cyclist.

Six Haverhill churches and chapels – Downs Baptist Chapel, St Mary's, the Old Independent, Methodist, West End Congregational and St Felix Roman Catholic – were among 730 Suffolk places of worship open for the bike ride.

The Churches Trust makes grants to historic churches and chapels of all denominations towards repair and restoration costs. Since 1974 it has made grants totalling over £3 million.

Local groups share in community cash

MORE than £20,000 has been handed out in grants to groups in West Suffolk, including several in the Haverhill area.

The West Suffolk Community Chest has reopened its coffers for the second time and among the 19 groups to benefit are: Haverhill Volunteer Centre; Haverhill's youth volunteering project; Grampian Gunners Under 10s Football in Haverhill, who received funds to buy larger portable goals and new training and football kits; and Age Concern Suffolk for healthy eating menus for older people to tackle malnutrition.

This year's scheme was launched by the West Suffolk Local Strategic Partnership (WSLSP) in June and encouraged local groups to come forward to seek funding of up to £1,500. Members of the WSLSP agreed the funding last week.

The money is made up of £10,786 from the WSLSP, £5,000 from Forest Heath District Council and £5,000 from St Edmundsbury Borough Council. Projects are expected to be completed by March 2009.

John Griffiths, chair of WSLSP, said: "The West Suffolk LSP was set up to help make life better for people in West Suffolk and these projects will do just that."

"We are delighted to be able to help so many community organisations and we look forward to their schemes coming to fruition."

Gardeners bring out their best

A CHURCH show saw a loaf of white bread claim a prize.

St Peter and St Paul, Kedington, held its annual horticultural show, including categories for vegetables and fruit, flowers, pot plants, culinary products and preserves. John Brett was outright winner of the Keddy Trophy, with David Lee runner-up. The Les Moulton Trophy for the exhibit judged best in show went to Leo Farthing for his loaf of white bread in the culinary section.

Man used cannabis to beat addictions

A MAN arrested for being in possession of cannabis avoided being jailed after a judge heard that he was using it to help wean himself off heroin and cocaine.

Steven Manley, 22, was caught with just £5 worth of cannabis but faced the prospect of going to prison because he was subject to a suspended sentence at the time.

Manley, of Windsor Terrace, Haverhill, appeared at Ipswich Crown Court where he pleaded guilty to possession of cannabis, breach of a suspended sentence and breach of a conditional discharge.

But instead of activating the 12-month prison term, Judge Neil McKittrick said he was ordering Manley to undertake unpaid community work to give him a further chance to beat his drug habit.

Robert Sadd, prosecuting, said that the suspended sentence had been imposed in August last year for two offences of burglary and one of theft, after Manley had run out of money to buy drugs and broken into garages and a house to steal property.

In January, Manley was back before the court after a search of his room at the YMCA in Bury St Edmunds, where he was staying at the time, revealed a small quantity of cannabis. That resulted in a condition discharge also being imposed on him.

Mitigating, Jeremy Kendall said that Manley appreciated that he had tried the patience of the court and had a poor history of offending, much of it due to his addiction to crack cocaine and heroin.

Mr Kendall said: "His cannabis problem is a by-product of his weaning off more serious drugs."

Manley, who is now living with his three-month pregnant girlfriend in Haverhill, had been making real progress, said Mr Kendall, and going into prison would put him at serious risk of seeing that progress to get off hard drugs reversed.

Judge McKittrick said that while under any circumstances he could never condone the use of cannabis, which could lead to mental health problems in some people, he did accept that Manley had used it to help himself.

He said: "I have to say that if this is part of your weaning off more addictive hard drugs I suppose I have to bow to that fact."

"I would prefer you went off drugs altogether. Living with your girlfriend may help in that process. If you come before this court again for breach you will get no mercy."

Manley was ordered to complete 60 hours of unpaid community work and pay £200 towards prosecution costs.

Computer centre a hit with visitors

BY Jo Deeks

Email:
editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HAVERHILL'S "world-class" attraction on computer history enjoyed a successful first public opening.

The Centre for Computing History sold out all tickets before the event, which was part of St Edmundsbury's Heritage Weekend.

Lisa McGerty, secretary of the Centre for Computing History committee, said: "This enthusiastic response to our first open day event has confirmed for us that the local community is as interested in this project as the hundreds of people from across the UK and Europe who have written to us via our website."

"People were keen to find out when we will be fully open to the public. Unfortunately, this is something we can't make possible until the centre finds a permanent home. We are grateful to Christopher Gurteen for providing an interim home at Chauntry Mills but we are now actively looking for a larger building that will allow public access."

■ OPEN DAY . . . visitors take a tour around the centre.

Aimed at everyone from children to academics, the centre's inventive multimedia approach offers visitors the opportunity to interact with machines.

Ms McGerty said: "A great favourite was the gaming exhibition, which offered visitors the opportunity, depending on age, to either relive the halcyon days of Pong, Pac-Man and Space Invaders or sample these vintage classics for the first time. We try to dispel the 'Shh! don't touch' preconception people have about museums and encourage visitors to get really involved."

Established to create a permanent, public exhibition that tells the story of the information age, the centre presents an internationally significant collection of computers, related artefacts, memorabilia and associated materials.

Gillian Blackmore, a fellow member of the committee, said: "We are confident that Haverhill offers a prime location for a world-class attraction of this nature. The town's proximity to Cambridge and the shared locale contribute massively to its appeal."

"We have been overwhelmed by the level of support for this project from within the town and the wider area. To date, we have the support of over 20 organisations, including Samuel Ward Upper School, Haverhill Enterprise, Haverhill Town Council and the heritage departments of St Edmundsbury Borough Council and Suffolk County Council."

Charity walk attracts 2,000

BY John Morgan

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

MORE than 2,000 people took to the streets of Cambridge in blazing sunshine for the city's premier charity walk – Bridge the Gap.

Young and old from all over the region gathered on Jesus Green for the start of the four-and-half mile stroll which took in 10 Cambridge colleges and the Scott Polar Research Institute.

The event was officially started by Mark Foster, the St Neots-based Olympic swimmer and Britain's flag bearer at the opening ceremony in

Sunshine stroll around colleges

Beijing. There was a carnival atmosphere with entertainment on Jesus Green and at various points along the route. Members of the Society of Cambridge Tourist Guides provided expert insights for participants.

There was also an army of helpful teenagers from the Cherry Hinton, Cambridge Chesterton and Comberton Army Cadet Forces.

Iceni Waters provided mineral water bottled for every walker, while Subway franchisee Mark Greening provided lunches for 100 volunteers.

Bridge the Gap aims to raise £40,000 this year for three charities – the Cambridge News appeal for a £1 million Teenage Cancer Trust unit in Cambridge, the Arthur Rank Hospice and Press Relief, the News' community fund.

Pat Dalrymple, from Arthur Rank Hospice, said: "It is absolutely brilliant – what is fantastic is the money goes to local charities and gives people an opportunity to visit the colleges."

Andy Gough, chairman of Press Relief, said: "The event started with Press Relief and the Cambridge News and we are delighted to see it has grown so much."

"We've had well over 2,000 people here today, some who have been here year after year and others for whom this was their first time."

Mr Gough added: "The university has been a key partner in this and I know it is an important way for them to open up to the people of Cambridge. Now I hope we build on this success."

This year's walk was sponsored by Excell, the Sawston-based telecommunications company.

Helen Bearfield-Smith, from the Teenage Cancer Trust, said: "This event is made possible by a brilliant partnership between the charities, Cambridge University Press, the university and our sponsors, it is not just put on by one person. The Teenage Cancer Trust is very happy to be part of that."

Society slams plan for two authorities

BY Jo Deeks

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGN group has slammed "fundamentally flawed" proposals to reorganise local government in Suffolk, which it says has excluded its 1,800 members.

Suffolk Preservation Society says the Boundary Commission proposals have resulted in "nothing more than self-promoting councils attempting to position themselves as front-runner in a race to head a new unitary authority".

It also argues the review has failed to address problems in the county's current three-tier structure, while the option to deliver more streamlined local government had not been considered.

In a hard-hitting objection to the proposals, the society also said the voices of town and parish councils had been lost during a "sham consultation" which left little or no time for meaningful debate.

Richard Ward, society director, said: "Our town and parish councils play a pivotal role in local government but, because of the short timetable, many have been unable to comment on these proposals. These councils are of profound importance as they are the voices of their communities at grassroots level – yet they have not been allowed to be a part of the process in shaping their own future."

The commission has proposed creating two unitary authorities – one for Ipswich and Felixstowe and another for the whole of rural Suffolk.

Arrowing experience

A WONDER dog is wagging her tail again after a 10in toy arrow was removed from her stomach.

Four-month-old Staffordshire Bull Terrier Summer-June, above, had an operation to remove the wooden arrow and plastic suction pad. She is now back at home with owner Leanne Heffer, 33, of Haverhill. The puppy was taken to Swayne and Partners vets in Long Melford after she kept vomiting.

Mrs Heffer said: "It was my seven-year-old daughter's arrow and we didn't realise Summer-June had eaten it. It was a lucky escape. I'm ecstatic."

Vet Simon Culmstock said it was a miracle the arrow, which was nearly half as long as the dog, had not perforated her stomach.

Hit tunes for reunion

THE sounds of yesteryear will accompany a reunion for former members of a village youth club.

The Camps Youth Club is holding a reunion night on Friday, October 17 between 8pm and midnight.

The club is now over 35 years old.

The event, at Castle Camps village hall, will feature a live band playing songs from the 70s, 80s and 90s, as well as a rodeo.

For tickets, priced £6 each, call Malcolm on 07710 171409.

Mayor goes round the houses

HAVERHILL Mayor Les Ager went along to meet students and staff at Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College in Haverhill and helped launch their new house system.

The college decided to introduce the system to provide a means of competitive but supportive interaction between students in all areas of college life – academic, sporting and extra-curricular.

Headteacher Madeleine Vigar wrote to local press and community groups in May inviting local people to offer suggestions for names for the four houses. The college was overwhelmed by the response from local residents. But it was decided that Cllr Ager's suggestion of naming the houses after four areas of Haverhill – Hamlet, Helions, Chantry and Wilsey – would be adopted.

Cllr Ager attended a ceremony to announce the names and eight students were awarded the role of house captains and vice captains.

Ms Vigar said: "We were very pleased to welcome the mayor to the college to meet our students and celebrate this next exciting phase in the continued development of our college."

"We were delighted with the response from the people of Haverhill to our request for ideas for house names and would like to thank all those people who took the trouble to contact us."

Careless charge for driver

A BUS driver from Haverhill has been reported by police for careless driving after slicing the top off a double decker school bus when it hit a railway bridge.

The 51-year-old Burton Coaches driver was alone on the bus after dropping off his last group of school pupils last Tuesday afternoon when he collided with the bridge at Little Saxham, near Bury St Edmunds.

The driver was shaken, but unhurt.

A police spokesman said the driver was reported at the scene of the collision for careless driving and further inquiries would be carried out.

A file is set to be submitted will the prosecution service and a decision made to either summons him to court for prosecution or discontinue the case.

Scheme to check on sex offenders

PARENTS are able to check whether people with access to their children have a record of child sex offences, under a pilot scheme launched this week.

Cambridgeshire Constabulary is one of four forces in England selected by the Home Office to trial the Child Sex Offender Disclosure Pilot – but the trial will be limited to the Peterborough area.

Cambridgeshire officers say there is scope to expand the pilot within the county if it proves successful.

The scheme will allow parents, carers and guardians to ask whether named individuals with unsupervised access to their children are registered child sex offenders, or have received cautions and informal warnings over child sex allegations.

There is a presumption that disclosure will be made, but only to the person responsible for the child.

Officers stress that it is not a version of the US Megan's Law, which involves the automatic disclosure of details of sex offenders living in an area to the general public.

Some have pushed for a UK equivalent of Megan's Law in the wake of the murder of eight-year-old Sarah Payne, who was killed by a convicted child sex offender in 2000.

Det Supt John Raine, of Cambridgeshire police, said that the pilot scheme builds on existing Multi Agency Public Protection (MAPP) arrangements, under which information is disclosed to an individual or group where it is felt necessary.

BY Julian Makey

Email: editorial@stivesweeklynews.co.uk

He said: "There is an explicit assumption that the people best placed to protect their children are parents and carers."

The other sites for the pilot are Stockton in Cleveland, Southampton in Hampshire and the whole of Warwickshire.

Asked why Cambridge and other areas of the county were not chosen for the pilot, Det Supt Raine said: "The Peterborough unitary authority is coterminous with the policing area (the northern division).

"If we broadened it out, we have got to involve five other local authorities and another county council, and another 1,500 police officers.

"But if the demand exists, we would consider broadening it out later on."

Det Supt Raine said that areas not included in the pilot will not have a lesser level of protection, as they are covered by existing MAPP arrangements.

Some have fears about allegations not proven in court being disclosed and about possible vigilante action.

But Gary Swain, a former Cambridgeshire police officer working on the pilot, said the MAPP scheme had shown that parents behave responsibly when information is disclosed.

He added: "It isn't Sarah's Law and it isn't Megan's Law.

"We are not going to go nailing people's details on a lamppost."

Making music to help animals

ANIMAL-loving musicians Maria Daines and Paul Killington recently returned from a gig with a difference in Vlamertinge, Belgium. Maria and Paul played an hour-long acoustic set for Scooby, a leading association dealing with the rescue of Galgos (Spanish greyhounds) and the largest shelter in Spain for homeless animals.

Maria and Paul were accompanied by Mary Alice Pollard, "Cornwall's voice for animals" who photographed the event, which celebrated Scooby's 20th anniversary. Visitors and supporting organisations attended from the UK, Germany, France, Switzerland and America, raising 5,000 Euros (£4,000) on the day, to help feed the animals in Scooby's care. Maria and Paul, from Horseheath, said: "It was a wonderful experience to be a part of. Scooby volunteers were very welcoming and playing our music to help raise awareness and funds was tremendously worthwhile. We support the work of Scooby 100 per cent."

Maria, Paul and the band are now set to play a benefit gig in Hertfordshire in October for Greek Animal Rescue and Greyhound Compassion, followed by acoustic gigs for SOS Galgos in Barcelona in November with further live dates planned in France, the Netherlands and America in 2009.

Recently they wrote a song for greyhounds entitled Racing to Death, which was endorsed by actress Annette Crosbie OBE. The song received airplay on BBC Radio after it was released by UK campaign group, GreyExploitations. The song has since been translated into Dutch and Spanish and is included in many online video presentations. Maria and Paul's CD, Music United For Animals, is also helping to raise funds to help small animal shelters world wide since its release in 2006. Their second CD for is in the pipeline. Colleges go on raising the bar

STRONG leadership and clear vision, challenging aspirations and targets, and a thorough process of progress monitoring and self-assessment, are just a number of ways colleges can raise the bar and work towards achieving outstanding status.

The report, How colleges improve: a review of effective practice, published by the Office for Standards in Education, Children's Services and Skills (Ofsted), finds that the further education sector is improving. More than 60 per cent of colleges are now considered good or better at inspection, up from just under 50 per cent in 2001-2005, the first round of Ofsted inspections.

Further education sector goes on improving

No single strategy for improvement is expected to hit the mark for all colleges. However the report identifies a number of features that are common to those who successfully lifted their standards between first and second Ofsted inspections, from inadequate to good, or from satisfactory or good to outstanding.

It also identifies several factors which appeared to hold back progress in those colleges which did not improve their performance over the two cycles of inspection.

The report finds that a clear vision and mission, promoted throughout the college by positive and supportive leaders, is central to improving learners' skills and achievements.

The mantra "satisfactory is not good enough", seen in colleges that had improved considerably, created a strong culture of continual improvement. Rather than just settling for 'good', staff and learners strive for excellence, in an environment that supports professional development through well-conceived arrangements for lesson observation linked to the updating of teachers' skills.

Christine Gilbert, Her Majesty's chief inspector, said: "It's a promising sign that, overall, the further education sector is improving. Many of the case studies found in this review have shown ambitious vision and strong leadership to rapidly improve their standards between Ofsted inspections. I hope they are a source of inspiration to other colleges that still have a way to go in improving their performance.

"It's crucial, however, that we're also aware of why some colleges haven't been improving. This report also considers a number of case studies of colleges that have shown little progress, which helps us identify those that are impeding change as well as those that are fundamental to improvement."

PUPILS at Barnardiston Hall Preparatory School had a good reason to celebrate the first day of the autumn term when they received the results of their London Academy of Music and Drama (Speech and Drama) examinations.

The hard work the children, all aged between six and 12 years, had put in really paid off, with 72 per cent of the children receiving a Distinction and all children receiving at least a Merit.

The examiner, Helen Williams, congratulated the 35 pupils on the high quality of the work she saw during her two days at Barnardiston Hall, which is an examination centre for LAMDA (London Academy of Music and Drama).

Mrs Jessop, head of speech and drama at the school was delighted with the results particularly as several of the children had also been appearing in the school production at the end of the term, and therefore had an additional workload.

Set in 16 acres of grounds near Haverhill, Barnardiston Hall Preparatory School offers individual, all-round education for boys and girls and offers boarding. High standards are achieved by small classes (average 14 children, maximum 20) who are taught by graduate and SAMUEL Ward is now one of the highest achieving schools in Suffolk.

In recent exams 78 per cent of pupils gained five or more A*-C grade at GCSE but of more importance 58 per cent gained at least five or more A*-C grades including English and Maths.

The school admits pupils from a wide area around south west Suffolk, primarily the Clare and Haverhill area and outlying villages. Although the school is always over subscribed it is trying to increase its capacity and offers a comprehensive transport service. The success of the school has been recognised by the Department for Education, Families and Schools. It is a designated 'High performing specialist school' with a hat-trick of specialisms and is also a Training School and Leading Edge School.

Deputy Head Russell Boulton explains the reason for this success is the unique and transformational process the school has developed over a number of years.

1 - The school has an explicit and dedicated set of values designed to improve pupil's self-worth and self-belief. The school makes all pupils and staff feel they can be successful and encourages them to aim high.

2 - Sophisticated data is used to identify what the focus of each student should be. Data is shared with parents and pupils on a regular basis to ensure that pupils stay on target.

3 - Samuel Ward has developed a personalised approach. It has created programmes of learning that are tailored to meet needs, whether students will eventually join the top universities or pursue a career after the Sixth Form, the school tries to meet their needs.

4 - The school fosters a strong focus on the conditions for learning.

Mr Boulton says: "No pupil can succeed if they feel unhappy or insecure, if their learning is disrupted or they have low self-esteem. The school has a strong ethos and intervenes quickly to try and remove any obstacles to success."

Pupils at Samuel Ward can look forward to the future with confidence, a confidence built on firm values, a confidence that comes from preparing for the future now. As the schools says "the best way to predict the future ... is to create it".

Beer Festival has the feminine touch

Traditionally, organising and hosting Beer Festivals with real ales has been left firmly in the hands of men, until now. Following in the footsteps of Christine Cryne, the first ever woman to organise the Great British Beer Festival, two local ladies are now turning their hand to the fine art of Beer Festival organisation.

It's a clear case of sisters are doing it for themselves as Kate Wood, landlady of the Plough Inn at Hundon, along with Letty Jeffreys, have organised a weekend of fun, live music and the cream of the very best local beers in the pubs first ever Beer Festival.

Kate, Cask Marque holder and member of the British Institute of Inn Keeping, enthused "We just can't wait for the last weekend of September, we've got 14 of the very finest real ales in the country just waiting to be showcased at the festival, with treasures from local breweries and microbreweries such as Old Cannon in Bury and many many more." "We're really excited about getting local people together for this event," adds Letty. "The weekend will see three fantastic bands too, as well as the finest in local ales!"

Batman battles the evil Joker

STEVE Rinaldi, who has toured with Rinaldi Sings to the 100 Club and The New Cavern Club in Liverpool, returns to his roots at the Haverhill Arts Centre this weekend.

With help from the Haverhill Silver Band, he will sing some of his own material from his second album, Bingo, as well as a selection of other songs new to the band's repertoire. The concert starts at 7.30pm on Sunday.

■ Batman swoops into the cinema in The Dark Knight (12A) on Tuesday, September 23 and Thursday, September 25 at 7.45pm.

With a cracking performance by the late Heath Ledger, and also starring Michael Caine, Christian Bale and Morgan Freeman, this sequel has received good reviews.

Batman fights criminal mastermind The Joker as he unleashes a reign of chaos across Gotham City. To stop this devious new menace – Batman's most vicious enemy yet – he will have to use every high-tech weapon in his arsenal and confront everything he believes in.

World preview of a reworked classic

CAMBRIDGE theatre-goers have been getting the chance to glimpse a new show before it makes its West End debut. Girl With a Pearl Earring, which runs at the Arts Theatre until Saturday, is a new adaptation of Tracy Chevalier's best-selling novel about one of the most revered

Dutch masters of his time, Johannes Vermeer. The story, which was made into a film starring Scarlett Johansson and Colin Firth, takes its name from the painter's most famous work. The subject of the painting, Griet, becomes Vermeer's muse in the fictionalised tale after she is sent to work as a maid in his household. The part of Vermeer is played by Northern Irish actor Adrian Dunbar who has appeared in films including My Left Foot and The Crying Game. He believes Cambridge audiences will be getting a unique chance to see a new play being born.

"This production is different because it's a new play and I think it will change a bit, Cambridge is our testing ground and that's very exciting," he said. The show starts at 7.45pm with a Saturday matinee at 2.30pm. Tickets are £10-£30. To book call (01223) 503333.

Accidental Innes is just in it for the craic

By Nik Shelton

NEIL Innes' career has seen him play with The Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band, write for Monty Python Python and form mock mop tops The Rutles.

Since the 60s he has orbited the spheres of music and comedy shoulder-to-shoulder with the likes of Eric Idle, Vivian Stanshall and many other cult names. But few could pick him out in an identity parade – and that's just the way he likes it.

"It is the perfect way to be," he says chuckling. "I've got it all. I've got a life I can go anywhere I like, play music with some of the best people in the business and then disappear again – I'm like the Scarlet Pimpernel of showbiz." For his latest tour he is gathering together the friends he appeared with on the 70s comedy show Rutland Weekend Television. The programme gave birth to The Rutles, the Beatles spoofers who gave the world the 1978 mockumentary All You Need Is Cash.

"There'll be some Bonzos stuff, some Rutles and some

■ 'THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL OF SHOWBIZ'... Neil Innes. CP

Pythonesque bits," says Neil of the tour, which opens in Cambridge. "But it's a real band, we're not just comedians. There's some real music as well as just mucking about."

"It's something we all fancy doing, it's not a career move, it's just for the craic and we're all grinning at the thought of it. What else are us silly old bus pass people going to do?"

It all started for Neil when he and a group of art school students, including the eccentric Vivian Stanshall, formed the Bonzo Dog Doo Dah Band in 1962. Originally a jazz band, they took in rock and psychedelia and were never afraid to inject humour into their records. "Music is there to be enjoyed, and if it's pompous and idiotic it should be sent up, that's what the Bonzos did. I've found that all the good musicians like a laugh too." The Bonzos were a hell of a lot of fun but then I got seconded to the Pythons and that was a lot of fun as well and then that led to The Rutles. I've always enjoyed what I've been doing but I've never thought about whether it was a good career move. I've never had any ambition other than to do the things I like.

"It's all been something of a complete accident. I should have been a painter."

Neil Innes plays The Junction in Cambridge on Thursday, October 2. Tickets are £17.50-£20. To book call (01223) 511511.

HAVERHILL WEEKLY NEWS

MOTORING

Get up and do the Twingo

FOR all the publicity surrounding the new breed of cars boasting eye-popping levels of horsepower, not every manufacturer has chosen to join the performance arms race.

Renault has opted for a more measured approach, so the decision to move the Twingo upmarket has raised a few eyebrows. With the Twingo, Renault has pulled out all the stops.

Tuned by the experts at Renault-sport – the people who fettled the acclaimed Clio 197 and Mégane R26 – this Twingo is much more than a cosmetic update. It boasts a suitably purposeful bodykit, big wheels and a convincing roof spoiler. The Twingo 133 also looks pretty mean when parked up.

And there's more because there're not one but two Twingo 133 models – the standard car and one fitted with a Cup chassis in the same vein as other Renault-sport cars. Essentially you get a car with suspension that's been further tuned and stiffened – plus an even lower ride height – along with 17-inch wheels replacing the standard 16-inch items.

Factor in an ESP system that can be completely switched off, supportive sports seats, a chunky sports steering wheel and a naughty exhaust note and you've got a feisty toddler to the Clio 197's fun-loving adolescent character.

The component that makes the Twingo 133 whole is its engine, a specially tuned 1.6-litre normally aspirated four-cylinder petrol motor. Its signature 133 horsepower is complemented by a healthy 118lb/ft of torque.

As you can probably guess, to attain the claimed zero to 62mph sprint time of 8.7 seconds – and maintain a high-revving lifestyle – you're going to have to stir that gearlever a lot. Frankly it's never a chore, especially when the car's exhaust note rises from deep burble to gritty whine, just like a grown-up sports car.

The basic driving experience is no less entertaining. Thanks to its modest size, the Twingo can be hustled along at a surprisingly remarkable pace.

Neither is the Twingo's ability to cope with a wide variety of road surfaces. The standard suspension settings, although anything but soft, do a fine job of dealing with surface imperfections. Odd cambers and mid-corner bumps fail to unsettle the little Renault.

The Cup-spec Twingo feels sharper everywhere, and exhibits none of the negative traits of other so-called sports hatches. But this is the best bit: opting for the Cup variant costs a miserly £650 extra. That's right, for the chassis tweaks plus the 17-inch wheels and tyres you pay only £650. And remember, that's on top of the Twingo 133's already modest asking price.

Basically

A refreshing experience, Renault's Twingo 133 is a great all-rounder.

Quality tops Mégane brief

RENAULT has released images of the next Mégane – due for launch at next month's Paris Motor Show.

With styling heavily influenced by the latest Laguna, the Mégane will be targeted at the Mk VI VW Golf which shows Renault's intent to aim its hatchback further upmarket.

Larger but lighter than the existing model, the Mégane will be on sale in the UK this November and should have a level of fit and finish befitting its aspirations. The build quality and reliability have been worked on to try and match Volkswagen's legendary levels. However Renault aims to keep the fun-factor which helped the current Megane sell in large numbers, so the driving dynamics are tailored to offer precise steering and a well-rounded ride.

The engine range will feature some of Renault's most advanced engines that offer good levels of power with excellent green figures. Four of the engines have emissions levels under the 120g/km mark ensuring low road tax costs and 95 per cent of the car will be recyclable at the end of its useful life.

The high tech emphasis is continued to the interior with a number of gadgets and toys including handsfree entry and ignition, automatic locking, a tailored speaker set-up and a Bluetooth CD navigation system.

Finally, expect the now customary levels of safety found in Renault cars to be included in all six models the Mégane family will eventually have. More details will be announced at the Paris launch.

Ford releases new Ka specs prior to launch later in year

FORD has released further details of its new Ka which is to be launched at the Paris Motor Show.

The October show date will see the unveiling of the second generation Ka which will aim to continue the mantle of the fun-to-drive city car that the current Ka established 12 years ago.

With a new chassis, suspension and steering system, the Ford Ka will be set-up to be a highly enjoyable car to drive around town – the testing programme has even seen it lapping the fearsome Nurburgring. The new Ka will also feature a couple of highly economical models too with a 68bhp, 1.2-litre petrol engine and the Ka's first diesel, a 1.3-litre, 74bhp unit which will offer 67.2mpg. Both engines will produce less than 120g/km of CO₂

There will be four models available at launch – Studio, Style, Style + and Zetec – and SportKa and StreetKa models have been confirmed as being in the pipeline.

All models will come with a good level of equipment – the biggest difference between the new Ka's launch and the original's – and the safety levels are expected to be among the best in class too.

A UK on-sale date hasn't been confirmed yet but it is expected to be late 2008/early 2009. Prices and exact spec will be available closer to launch.

Plug-in electricity-driven Prius passes test

A HYBRID car which can be charged from a normal domestic electricity supply was launched this week.

The Toyota Plug-In-Hybrid-Vehicle (PHV) is powered by a combination of a battery and a standard petrol engine.

On short journeys, the car uses electric power to reduce its greenhouse gas emissions.

Previous hybrid vehicles, such as the Toyota Prius could not be charged from the grid – the battery was charged as the car drove along.

Toyota believes the new development marks an important milestone in the move towards cleaner cars.

Initial tests on the vehicle will take place over the coming year, with 50 employees of the energy company EDF using the PHV for journeys in the Greater London area.

Tests on the car in France suggest that for journeys up to 25 kilometres, its fuel efficiency is around 60 per cent better than that of the standard Prius.

The PHV has a maximum range of 10 kilometres (six miles) in electric mode, after which it switches to standard hybrid mode with the battery charging as the car moves.

The car can be charged either from a standard household electrical point or at specially designed charging posts, 40 of which have already been installed in the UK by EDF Energy.

The PHV's top speed in electric mode, 100km/h (about 60mph), may not set pulses racing among the Jeremy Clarkson of this world, but it marks a significant step up on the Prius, which could only manage around 40km/h (about 24mph) when running on battery power.

Koel Saga, the head of hybrid development at Toyota, said he hoped the tests with the EDF employees would provide data on the car's emissions and performance in a real-life situation, as well as information on British driving habits.

Toyota is now working on new battery technology to extend the car's quite limited range in electric mode.

In June Toyota set up a team to work on creating batteries that could charge more quickly – present charge time is around two hours – and run for greater distances.

No date has been set for the commercial release of the PHV, nor has a showroom price been calculated.

Peter Hofman, from EDF Energy, said the company was still considering the best way to charge customers for electricity they used to charge their PHV.

One option was to offer a lower tariff at night, so drivers could charge their battery more cheaply while they were in bed, he said.

A dashboard display would allow the driver to check both the level of charge in the battery and how much they were being charged on their account.

John Hutton, the Secretary of State for Business, Enterprise and Regulatory Reform, welcomed today's announcement, saying the trial was a step towards making the UK the leading country for low-carbon vehicles.

■ PRIUS PHV... can be charged with a standard plug.

Consumer Advice -

A Pet is a Lifetime Commitment

Never Buy On Impulse

Dogs and Cats can live 15-20 years.
Rabbits can live 7-10 years or longer.

Will you be there for them - through marriage, divorce, having babies, moving house and holidays away?

Have you considered:

- Do you have the time to give your pet the exercise, mental stimulation, training and attention it needs?
- Dogs and cats cost around £500-£1000 a year to keep.
- If this is a pet for the children, who will look after the animal when the children leave home?

Note: Under the Animal Welfare Act 2006 a pet owner has a legal duty to ensure the welfare of his animal(s).

If you decide to buy a pet we would always recommend the following:

- Please consider contacting your local animal rescue/rehoming centre. There are thousands of healthy, loving animals all over the UK who need a home.
- Research before you buy. Be sure you understand the needs of the pet you are interested in. Check that your lifestyle and environment suit the animal.
- When buying kittens and puppies, insist on seeing the mother with the litter. Check that the facilities are clean and the animals appear alert and healthy. You should be able to handle them freely under supervision. Make sure your chosen pet is old enough to leave its mother.
- Ensure that the animal you are buying is healthy and free from signs of injury or disease. Always ask for a copy of its medical records including vaccination certificate and records of worming and flea treatment.
- Be prepared to wait: the right pet is worth waiting for!

Bailey fires the final shot

Grampian Gunners 5 St Ives Rgrs 4

CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, U15A

GRAMPIAN made a winning start to their campaign against St Ives on Sunday at the Sports Field.

Two goals down inside 10 minutes was far from the perfect opening, but Jacob Brown scored from a Luke Youngs corner to get the home side back in it.

Then a further goal from the visitors restored their two-goal cushion.

On half time, Jordan Jackson reduced the arrears and Gunner drew level after the break, with Jackson adding his second from the penalty spot.

St Ives then scored again, but, 10 minutes from time Brown equalised and, then with four minutes left on the clock, Tom Bailey nipped in to score the winner.

Manager Simon Youngs said: "We were not great first half but managed to pull things round in the second.

"We never reached the heights of pre-season when we played some great stuff, so there is still plenty to come from the boys."

Hundon Hawks 6 Newmarket 0

CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, U16C

HAWKS crushed last season's Division D champions Newmarket with goals from Lock, Battye, Boyce, Brown, Hunsden and Robinson. But it will count for nothing alongside last week's convincing win at Cambridge as the league have decided to start again next week with three instead of four divisions.

The two sides Hawks have already beaten will feature in Division C but Hawks have been moved up a division.

This is a shame as Hawks, who were excellent this week allowing their opposition only rare forays into their territory.

And they created only one worthwhile chance while Hundon could easily have doubled their tally.

West Wrattling 8 Willingham 3

CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, U12D

WEST Wrattling were outstanding in the first half as the Reds opened up the Willingham defence to lead 6-1 by half time.

An own goal started the scoring, before Bush (3), Stevenson and Ankers all finished well in front of goal.

The second half was harder with Wolves punishing the Wrattling defence with two well-crafted goals on the break.

Bush was then played in for his fourth of the game and then Bailey struck from the penalty spot.

Haverhill Rvrs 3 Saffron Walden 1

CAMBRIDGE & DISTRICT COLTS LEAGUE, U11C

THE first home game of the campaign saw Rovers playing host to Saffron Walden but after a good start to the season last week, the young Rovers side were stunned as the away took an early lead.

Joshua Oschukwu levelled the scores with a powerful, surging run from the halfway line that left defenders trailing in his wake, before slotting the ball home from six yards.

Rovers had shot-stopper Ben Coleman to thank for keeping the scores level – he saved a penalty before half time – but after the break the home side continued to press forward. And the good work paid off when Tom Middle fired home from an acute angle to beat the advancing keeper.

The home side continued their scoring ways when striker Will Bailey put the result beyond doubt.

Grampian Gunners 5 Plantation B 0

CAMBS MINI SOCCER LEAGUE, U10A

GUNNERS started with a much better attitude this week and created chance after chance but were foiled by Plantation's goalkeeper, who had a great game until Robson slotted home for 1-0.

Gunners scored two more goals through Fletcher and Thompson before half time.

The second half saw much of the same with two further strikes coming Webb and Henderson.

Aztecs B 1 Hundon Hawks 8

CAMBS MINI SOCCER LEAGUE, U10T

THE Hawks kicked off the season with a fine away win at Aztecs.

Skipper Milo Holmes opened the scoring with a fine strike after five minutes and further goals from Jack Krempel and Freddie Holmes made it 3-0 at the break.

The second half saw more Hawks domination with two goals each for Andre Henrique and Branham Ince and another goal for Holmes putting the visitors firmly in charge.

GOLF

Haverhill come up short despite gutsy fightback

Haverhill played out a thriller but narrowly missed a place in the final of the Curry Cup after losing to Stowmarket at Earl's Colne.

With Benton Hall advancing courtesy of their victory over Colne Valley, all eyes were on the all-Suffolk clash.

Trailing by 4½-1½ points at lunch following the foursomes, Haverhill's situation was grim as only Andy Fish, pictured, and Gerry Scott had managed a win.

Ted Fairhead and 16-year-old Owen Longley scrambled a half, but nobody realised at the time there was a dramatic finale to unfold in the early evening as rain showers scurried over the golf course.

With just four games to be decided, Haverhill got to within a point of Stowmarket.

Ross Curl was dormy three down as he stood over his approach shot to the 16th as Eric Kiddle, dormy three up, waited to tee off on the same hole.

At that moment Owen Longley closed out A Taylor on the 15th green while Fairhead was one up against M Toon.

The odds favoured Haverhill as Eric Kiddle only required a half to win a further point, but then came a run of three poor tee shots which cost him the closing holes.

A lost ball at 16 allowed the Fairhead/Toon game through as the excited spectators anxiously calculated the odds against either side snatching the winning point. For several minutes it was chaotic until both games were tied leaving Stowmarket one point ahead and with a place in the final against Benton Hall.

Singles: J Jameson v 4&2 Houchen, K Jameson 3&2 v G Scott, J Daniel 1up v Spittle, George v 3&2 Fish, McCredie v 1up Chandler, Darling 2&1 v Whiting, Edwards v 3&1 Craig, Tibbenham v 3&2 Penman, Smith 3&2 v Curl, Roper halved v Kiddle, Taylor v 4&3 Longley, Toon halved v Fairhead.

■ Thirty-five teams competed in the Pro-Am which was won by a team led by Brett Taylor (Chelmsford) who also captured the individual prize with a three-under return. Terry Bishop, Dan Wilkins and Greg Street completed the winning team's line-up, who were one shot ahead of Mark Baker's side from Colchester.

■ The seniors' away match at Newmarket last Friday resulted in a 4-2 victory for the home side.

■ On Sunday the poor weather did not stop the Junior Fund Raiser being played, and the winning team, with 158 points, was Harvey Bayester, Joe Davis, Kim Ward and Craig Sissons.

RUGBY UNION

Plenty of positives in defeat for Bergin

PAUL Bergin was encouraged by Haverhill's opening performance in the Eastern Counties Two season despite them slipping to an 18-9 defeat at Ipswich YM.

After a torrid end to the last campaign, they underwent changes in the summer with a new coach – Andy Price – appointed, and in their first competitive match, things looked up. Ipswich went ahead with a penalty, but two kicks from Kieran Evans put Haverhill 6-3 ahead at half time.

Bradley Gibson produced a 50-yard try-saving tackle to thwart the hosts after the break, but despite another kick from Evans, two tries, one conversion and a penalty sealed Ipswich's win.

"It was a good performance," said skipper Bergin. "We had some injuries and a rearranged back line and they managed to get two tries, a conversion and a penalty."

"It was much more promising than last year and there is a lot to take on for next week."

He added: "Things are looking up, but there are still things to work on."

Haverhill are at home to Broadland on Saturday.

■ PAUL BERGIN... "Things are looking up, but there are still things to work on."

IN BRIEF

Duquemin is a thorn in Colville side

WESTON Colville struggled to deal with Stuart Duquemin, who did his bit with bat and ball as Abington rounded off their season with a two-wicket triumph in Division Two of the Tucker Gardner Cambs & Hunts Premier Cricket League on Saturday.

Duquemin took 4 for 30 as Colville were bowled out for 106, before scoring 37 to launch the hosts' response.

Nick Wilderspin (3 for 8) and Colville captain Adie Westley (3 for 14) did their best, but Abington came through with 107 for 8.

Final medal eludes Alan in swansong

ALAN Bircher narrowly missed out on the medals in his swansong race at the inaugural Great North Swim.

The Haverhill swimmer, who announced his impending retirement from open water swimming after failing to qualify for the Beijing Olympics, finished fourth in the one-mile race at Lake Windermere in 17min 26sec.

Compatriot and Olympic 10km open water silver medallist David Davies won the race in 17.02.67 with Beijing champion Maarten van der Weijden, of Holland, runner-up in 17.04.82.

FOOTBALL: GAME ABANDONED AFTER TEENAGER IS TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Hurkett's injury forces early end

LEE Hurkett suffered a potential dislocated right knee as Haverhill's Ridgeons League, Premier Division clash with Stanway had to be abandoned after 76 minutes on Tuesday evening.

The match was goalless when the teenage left-back sustained the injury and an ambulance had to drive on to the pitch to reach the stricken defender.

Hurkett was assessed by paramedics on the turf before being taken to hospital. The fixture is likely to be replayed at a later date.

■ Two late goals killed off Haverhill's hopes of salvaging something from their home clash with Walsham Le Willows as they slumped to a 2-0 defeat in the Ridgeons League, Premier Division on Saturday.

Craig Cutts had a half-chance for Rovers before the break, but that proved to be their best opportunity of the game.

But Walsham failed to prise open up the hosts until 10 minutes from time before making sure of the three points in the closing stages.

Joint manager Neil Farlie said: "We always knew it was going to be a tough game, but the boys are disappointed because they gave it everything."

"We've defended like lions, but we needed a bit more quality when we got the ball."

"The main plus for us was Paul Abbott playing the last 20 minutes after coming back from a bad injury twice."

■ NEIL FARLIE... The Haverhill joint-manager suffered another blow when Lee Hurkett was injured.
